3. Keeping Your Home Clean and Comfortable Year Round

Maintaining a clean and comfortable home in the Gold Coast is essential for your health, wellbeing, and overall quality of life. The region's warm and humid climate, combined with occasional heavy rainfall, can cause dust, mold, and allergens to build up quickly if homes are not properly cared for. Regular cleaning routines, effective ventilation, and smart organization help keep living spaces fresh, inviting, and easy to maintain throughout the year.

Comfort in your home goes beyond cleanliness. It also includes proper lighting, temperature control, and creating functional spaces that feel relaxing and welcoming. Seasonal adjustments, like protecting against heat in summer or dampness in winter, are important to maintain a pleasant environment. By adopting consistent cleaning and comfort practices, you can enjoy a home that looks great, feels comfortable, and supports your wellbeing, making it a sanctuary for you and your family all year round.

Repairs and maintenance

Key points

- A regular maintenance schedule will help you to prevent or identify problems early.
- Develop an annual schedule to check and maintain the inside and outside of your home.
- Get expert advice and services where needed, especially for specific problems such as leaks, cracks and settlement, damp, salt, or termites.

- If you have an older home, it may include hazardous materials, such as asbestos or lead paint. Do not try to remove hazardous materials yourself. Get expert advice. Sometimes the best course of action is to seal the material, rather than removing it.

General maintenance

Repairs and maintenance extend the life of your home, improve its liveability and reduce health risks. With advice from a builder or designer, create a repair and maintenance schedule that prioritises urgent concerns and prevents larger problems from developing. Some of the examples listed below may require advice and repairs by a suitably qualified professional.

Outside your home:

- Check external painting and touch up as required.
- Repair or seal broken glass and windows with air leaks to reduce draughts and heat loss. Repair windows that are jammed or 'painted closed' and make them operable to improve cross ventilation. A variety of sealing strips, tapes and seals are available from hardware outlets.
- Protect and restore old windows and joinery.
- Check subfloor areas for dampness. Divert groundwater and provide additional subfloor ventilation where existing ventilation is inadequate.
- Check and replace corroded sacrificial anodes in hot water tanks, and check the pressure release valve for operation and leaks.

- Install, repair or replace insect screens to encourage natural cooling and 'night purging' in hot weather.
- Replace insulation that has been moved or damaged in ceilings and fill insulation gaps. Older insulation can settle and loses its insulating properties. Check the depth and 'loft' and replace as necessary.
- Replace cracked roof tiles and repair roof ridging, if necessary.
- Clean gutters regularly and check for leaks. Ensure adequate fall to drainage outlet.
- Trim trees and shrubs away from the house.

Inside your home:

- Check fridge door seals and replace if necessary. If your fridge is not energy efficient, now might be the time to upgrade to one with a high energy star rating.
- Install smoke detectors in correct locations and check the batteries in them.
- Check for air leaks. Fit dampers to chimney flues (or insulate if unused), seal around windows and doors, and fill cracks and gaps to reduce draughts.
- A thermal imaging camera can help to detect water leaks, shifted insulation and other issues. A qualified professional can assist.
- Have your heating and cooling systems checked and maintained by a qualified professional.
- Paint and repair walls and ceilings with low-VOC (volatile organic compound) paints to improve amenity and air quality.

- Consider replacing doors so you can 'zone' areas to control heat flow.
- Remove worn carpets, which can be a source of dust mites and allergens.

Keeping your home clean and comfortable year-round is essential to enjoy a healthy, relaxing, and welcoming living environment in the Gold Coast.
